

black students' handbook 2005/6

Every 4 hours an Accenture system goes live.

It makes you think.

Graduate careers in consulting

One of the world's leading management consulting, technology services and outsourcing companies, Accenture employs more than 115,000 people across some 48 countries – each playing their part in helping our clients become high-performance businesses.

If you're as dynamic and forward-thinking as we are, there's a big future ahead. Benefiting from exceptional training and comprehensive support, you'll work with the latest technology and with talented colleagues to advise a broad spectrum of organisations on how to improve their technology and processes or put huge strategic change programmes in place.

The projects are complex, the challenges significant and the lifestyle demanding. For this you will be rewarded well, with a salary of £28,500 and an additional £10,000 over your first 13 months. If you're genuinely interested in business and technology, expect to achieve a 2:1 degree and have 24/300 UCAS points, we can offer you a truly exceptional career. All of which makes ours a proposition that's well worth thinking about.

Accenture is committed to being an equal opportunities employer.

accenture.com/ukgraduates

• Consulting • Technology • Outsourcing

accenture

High performance. Delivered.